

Improving co-production at Surrey and Borders Partnership

Are you someone who uses our services, a family member or carer of someone who uses our services?
Our Trust is launching a working group to improve co-production and we need your support.

Our Trust have previously commissioned a project 'Who Holds the Power' to transform the future of co-production.
The new working group will focus on developing the recommendations for our Trust.

The group will focus on improving how we work with people who use our services, carers and communities.

Who holds the power? Help our Trust transform co-production.
